"A Possible Case" will be done at the Theatre Comique, Harlem, this week, and it will doubtless be as well received there as it has been during the past two weeks at the Standard Theatre, and before that at the Amphion Academy, Williamsburg. On April 30, "A Possible Case" will go to the Madison Square Theatre for an engagement of five weeks.

At the Fifth Avenue Theatre Louis James and his wife, Miss Marie Wainwright, will appear tonight, to-morrow and Saturday in "Otherlo," Mr. James impersonating the Moor and Miss Wainwright Desdemons. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and at the Saturday matines, "Much Aug. Acout Nothing" will be given with Louis James as Repuellet and Miss Wainwright as given a cordial reception to-night.

"The Pearl of Pekin" is crowding the Bijou Opera-House. The comic opera has evidently made a hit, and it is good for a long run. Louis Harrison is as funny as ever, and his songs are anxiously wated for and much applauded.

"School for Scandai" is the best of the old comedy revivals that Manager Henry E. Abbey has presented at Waliack's Theatre. Miss Rose Cognian, as Lady Teszle, and John Gilbert, as Sir Peter, are simply admirable. "The School for Scandai" is beautifully stared, and every one ought to see it, because the time is fast approaching when the famons Waliack Company, as an organza, will be produced at Dockstader's to-night, and the indications are that it will be a very enjoyable affair. Mr. Frankin File, to waom the authorship of the piece has been pretty generally attributed, explains that he is merely responsible directly for sone of the songs. Herr Brockmann's troupe of thirteen monkeys, eleven ponies, eighteen dogs and two goars, will be seen at the Star theatre to-morrow night, succeeding James Owen O'Connor. The monkeys are said to be excellent actors, and as Herr Brockmann claims a tweaty-five years' experience with that genus of Thespians, they ought to be worth seeing. The monkeys are between 8 and 4 feet in height, and are said to be a highly edifying sight in full dress. The other animals have little to do of any importance. Reports concerning the brewerymen's lockout continue to be very conflicting, each side giving out matter that the other side contradicts.

This is the eighth day of the lockout, and the situation is summed up thus : The union men, with the exception of those who have gone back to work and thus renounced their allegiance to the organization are out, and the employers assert that they will be kept out; that the breweries are all in operation, and that the boycott is not effective.

On the other hand the locked out men claim that the breweries are short of hands that the new men are so inexperienced and get drunk so much that they are comparative ly ineffective; that there are not more than 300 old union hands who have returned to work since the tockout:that the boygott is just beginning to be felt, that in a short time it will prove so serious that some of the brewprove so serious that some of the breweries will be wiped out of existence. Then, say the union men, the Brewers' Association will begin to realize that the unions have the whip, and the bosses will desire a settlement.
In order to refute the assertion made by the leaders of the unions that the Brewers' Association intended to reduce wages and increase the hours of labor, the Association passed a resolution last week pledging itself to maintain the present rate of wages and hours of work. The Maltsters' Association of Now or Never Should the Workers Stand Shoulder to Shoulder.

To the Editor of The Evening World : I have lived in many lands during my life time, but never have L been so struck with astonishment as to see with what persistent efforts many capitalists of different enterprises in this country ever and anon endeavor ak your existing unified labor ranks The brewers' pot has been a long time boil-ing, and at last has bubbled over in a most barefaced manner. Now or never should the workingmen of the unions, and others as well, stand shoulder to shoulder. A decisive well, stand shoulder to shoulder. A docisive blow can always be struck at that hydra. Creesus, when endeavoring to lap up as much of humble labor's vitality as it can dare with impunity. The true and trite adage should be borne in mind—"Fors est unitas."

Since my advent to the States I have made the labor question my study and have failed to find that the laborer has been in any one instance overpaid for his day's work. The contrary is invariably the case. Very inadequate remuneration for work done, seems, in too many instances, to be quite common here.

Mr. Editor, your "go-ahead" little paper, since it came into existence, has posed as the humble workers' champion. Well, worthily and ably has it advocated their cause. May It long continue to so do. I trust it will not

It will act as a stimulus to their curiosity to learn what extra inducements the dispensers of the non-union-brewed beverage may hold forth for its consumption. That daintiest of comedians, Miss Rosina Vokes, will not coange her bill at Daly's Theatre this week, the performance of last week having met with so much success. Consequently "A Game of Cards," "The Circus Rider" and "A Pantomime Rehearsal" will again be the attraction offered to patrons of Daly's. Miss Vokes has never appeared to greater advantage than in "The Circus Rider," and that as saying a great deal. Her engagement here will undoubtedly be a great financial success, which signifies a great deal more than the hackneyed "artistic triumph." At the time of the woman's death no one doubted that it was a case of murder. She had been living with Feurbach as his mistress for over a year and they had often quarrelled. Death was caused by two pistol-shot wounds, one in the side and one in the back, and the physicians testified that the latter was in such a position that it could not have been self-indicest.

The Coroner's jury, however, fatled to lay any hame upon Feurbach and the Grand Jury refused to indict him.

To-day Mr. Howe moved for his client's discharge and as the District-Attornay offered no objection Judge Cowing granted the motion.

The Grand Jury took the view that the woman died while attempting to kill Feurbach and killed herself. There was a struggle and while the woman's right hand was forced behind her back the pistol went off accidentally. At the time of the woman's death no one doubted neyed "artistic triumph."

"Partners" is doing weil at the Madison Square Theatre, and its run there will be stopped only on account of pressing engagement. "La Tosca" at the new Broadway Theatre is coming to an end. The preparations for the production of the "Queen's Maie" next Monday are rapidly approaching completion. The scenery is to be particularly bandsome. It is from the broshes of Henry E. Boyt and Rarley Merry. There is to be bright and catchy inusic, pretty women, beautiful costumes and, in isot, everything that the requirements of the spectacular comic opera call for.

At H. M. Jacobs's Third Aveoue that successful drama, "The Sliver King," will be the attraction this week under the management of George L. Haritson. There will be a strong cast, including Carl Haawin. "The Sliver King" never grows old. Numerous playwrights have imitated it, but

SPORTSIN AND OUT OF TOWN. SKILLMAN WINS THE CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

AT PLEETWOOD. Desperate Battle Promised Between Lol

Blanche to Spar With Patey Kerrigan-Lon Myers to be Here on June 20-A Handball Challenge from Australia.

HEN Skillman, mud-bespattered from head bespattered from head to foot, made the breakin on the homestretch of the track at Fleetwood yesterday, with Carter and Conneff fighting for a place, after a run of six and pretty a sight as the spring sun ever shone upon. The run was perfect and the weathfour young men start. ed, and only one failed to go the distance. The run lasted more than forty-two minutes. Carter thinks the race on forty-two minutes. Carter thinks the race on next Saturday a certainty for his team, the Suburban Harriers, and the individual cham-pionship a hard go between Conneff, Gilbert and himself. Conneff, Regan (who ran sec-ond to Carter in this race last year) and C. C. Hughes are about the only ones who think the Irishman's chances any way good. It will be a grand race, and there ought to be as big a crowd to see it as saw the battle on Irish a crowd to see it as saw the battle on Irish turf between Carter, the Rose, and Conneff, the Shrmaock,

A hard-glove contest to a finish between "Lol" White and Eugene Hornbecker is among the events set down to come off during the next three days. Hornbecker is a known game one and a fast fighter. White's friends promise that their man will make a desperate battle.

George La Blanche, the Marine, will spar with his pariner, Patsy Kerrigan, at the Broad Street Opera-House, Philadelphia, this week. La Blanche says that he has tried every way to get on with Jem Fell, but that the Yorkshireman does not seem to fancy the job.

Lon Myers will be here on June 20. A prominent Manhattan Athletic Club man, who received a 12-page letter from the ex-amateur champion on Saturday, says that he will at once apply for reinstatement, as he thinks himself as much an amateur as Ford. The Manhattan man thinks that he will be whitewashed, too.

James A. Keenau, champion handball player of Australia, has challenged Philip Casey, champion of America, to play a series of matches for $1,000 a side and the handball championship of the world.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a combination of two of the most valuable remedies in existence for the cure of Consumption and all Wasting Conditions; is more generally recommended and used by Physicians than any known remedy; it gives most satisfactory results, and tones up the system; and when the Consumptive has wasted away and loses hope, the Emulsion will speedily check the ravages of this terrible disease, and restore the sufferer to good health and happiness. This is equally true in regard to Rickets in Children, or Marasmus and Anæmia in Adults, and all impoverished conditions of the blood; and especially desirable for Colds and Chronic Coughs, as it will cure them more quickly than ordinary Specifics used. Palatable as milk.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more effering or has-tened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarra. The sense of smell, of tasts, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all—rield to its destructive infinance. The poison it dis-tributes throughout the system attacks every vital force and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicisms, impe-tantly awarded by successor and breaks and breaks. because but little understood, by most physicisms, impo-tently assured by quacks and chariatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and tenst-worthy. The new and hitherto nutried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Rangoan Curse has wen the hearty approval of thousands. "Papa, mamma, here is a gentleman who has saved your daughter's life," exclaimed Vivian as she came in followed by Robert,

"Saved our daughter's life!" said Mr. and Mrs. Duane. Mrs. Duane.

"It was in this way," said Vivian. "Ruby and I wanted to see who could run the faster, and as we were running my foot slipped, and I fell into the lake. Ruby screamed, and Mr. Capé, hearing the scream, rode up to the lake, jumped in, and swam with me to the shore."

BY HATTIE JACOBS, AGED TWELVE YEARS, OF 856 VAN BUREN STREET, BROOKLYN.

spring day in May; the dew was still upon the blossoms, as it was but 5 o'clock. Nothing could be heard but the occasional chirping of the birds. Suddenly upon the still air came young man who called, "Nero, Nero, come who petted his curly black coat. "John, take Nero in and give him his breakfast," said the young man to the gar-

The house from which the young man had come was not very poor in appearance, and yet not very rich. It had the appearance of T was a beautiful a comfortable home. It had on each side a small garden arranged with different kinds of plants. It was a very pretty place indeed. Towards the rear of the house was a stable near which was standing a beautiful horse, ready to take his master for his morning exercise. The young man, whose name was Robert Capé, crossed over to where the horse was standing, and with the help of the the barking of a dog.

and then a large Newfoundland bounded from the open door of a house, and following closely after was a mother and sister and uncle were travelling.

He was twenty-one years of age. His sister was a pretty blonde of seventeen. His mother was a stately old lady, and it could be seen that sake was once very beautiful. His uncle was very weatify, but it seemed he never could like Robert. Robert had never done done anything to displease his uncle, but he was like his unfortunate father, and his uncle (Mr. Dune) was never pleased with Mr. Cape. Who was now dead. Robert's sister being very much like his mother was a great favorite with Mr. Dune.

Now that I have described Mr. Cape's people we will look about one mile away where stands a beautiful mansion situated near a magnificent lake. We will peep into the sleeping apartment, where we will meet one of the most interesting persons of our story. The family consisted of a Mr. and Mrs. Dune and two beautiful daughters, one of them. Prinrose, a brunette of twenty. The younger and pet of the bouse was Vivian, a pretty blonde of eighteen.

Well, on this particular morning, Vivian, and he was now a waking, said: 'I think I will go with Ruby (Ruby was her maid to to the lake.'

Well, on this particular morning, Vivian, and he was there to meet the water, or and this blot of grass and see who will affect.

Well, on this particular morning, Vivian, as they were situated on the grass at the side of the lake. The was a great favorite with Mr. Dune.

Well, on this particular morning, Vivian, as they were situated on the grass at the side of the lake. The was a great favorite with the came to the lake, and seeing with Mr. Cape's people we will leok about one mile away where stands a beautiful place, is it not. Whey is a beautiful place, is it not. Whey is a seen and for the state.

"This is a beautiful place, is it not. Whey is a beautiful place, is it not. Whey is a seen flow of the lake."

"Ob. I know cried Vivian, is they were situated on the grass at the side of the lake.

"I do not like for the surface of the water, "In the came to the surface of the water, "In the came to the surface of the water, "In the came to the su

Robert Capé heard the scream and rode faster until he came to the lake, and seeing Vivian coming up to the surface of the water, pulled off his coat and jumped in after her. He succeeded in catching hold of her arm and swam with her to the shore.

As he placed Vivian on the grass, the sun shone on her face and he thought he had never seen such a beautiful girl before.

Ruby had revived, and Robert called to her. She came forward and with choking sobs thanked him for saving her mistress's life.

"There, there, my good girl. I only did" "Robert is a pretty name, too; but come.

Ruby.

"All right," said Vivian, "but before we go," turning to Robert, "I would like to know my rescuer's name. Mine is Vivian.
